DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 22, 23 and 25 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by U.S. Publication No. 200/0135070 to Cazaux et al. (Cazaux).

The applied reference has a common inventor with the instant application.

Based upon the earlier effective U.S. filing date of the reference, it constitutes prior art under 35 U.S.C. 102(e). This rejection under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) might be overcome either by a showing under 37 CFR 1.132 that any invention disclosed but not claimed in the reference was derived from the inventor of this application and is thus not the invention “by another,” or by an appropriate showing under 37 CFR 1.131.

Cazaux discloses a method of controlling a photosensitive cell comprising providing at least one timing control signal to the photocell by performing a rising edge and a falling edge of a transfer control signal when a read region is at high impedance; or setting a transfer control signal to a low state, setting a control signal to a low state, and thereafter setting the transfer control signal to a high state for a first period of time.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claim 24 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Claims 1-21 are allowed over the prior art.

With respect to claim 1, the prior art fails to disclose a method for controlling a photocell comprising a photodiode connected to a read node via a MOS transfer transistor, the read node being connected to a source of a reference voltage via a MOS reset transistor, cyclically comprising a waiting phase of non-zero duration at the end of which the photodiode is isolated from the reference voltage; an integration phase of non-zero duration at the end of which the photodiode is isolated from the reference voltage; an integration phase; a phase of reading a voltage representative of the useful voltage; wherein the isolation of the photodiode from the read node at the end of the waiting phase comprising the steps of setting the transfer transistor to the on state, the reset transistor being off; turning off the transfer transistor; and setting the reset transistor to the on state.

With respect to claims 8 and 12, the prior art fails to disclose a device for controlling a photocell comprising a photodiode having its voltage varying according to the lighting, the photodiode being connected to a read node via a MOS transfer transistor; a means for isolating the photodiode from the reference voltage; and a timing means for delaying the photodiode isolation by the isolation means after reading of the representative voltage by the read means, wherein the isolation means comprises a means for temporarily turning on the transfer transistor while maintaining the reset transistor off.
